ABOUT US

The Rivers, Trails, and Conservation Assistance (RTCA) Program is the community assistance arm of the National Park Service. RTCA staff provides technical assistance to community groups and local, state, and federal government agencies working to protect natural areas and water resources and enhance close-to-home outdoor recreation opportunities. We help communities plan, organize partnerships, and achieve on-the-ground success on projects they initiate.

Recent Successes

Historic Faulkner Trail Restoration

Since 2004, the Woodstock Trails Partnership has coordinating management and improvement of the 30-mile Woodstock Trails system. A key gateway to the system and to the Marsh-Billings-Rockefeller National Historical Park is the historic Faulkner Trail on Mount Tom, created 75 years ago as a memorial by Marianne Faulkner to her husband. This summer, the Commission was awarded a Vermont Recreation Trails Grant to create a multi-phase trail restoration strategy, as well as a Vermont Youth Conservation Crew through the Vermont Agency of Transportation Enhancements Program. The youth crew worked with a trails restoration specialist to repair stonework, clean out stone culverts and repair trail tread in order to showcase potential on-the-ground restoration approaches. A University of Vermont Historic Preservation Graduate student researched the creation of the trails and the Faulkner family to tell a more complete story of its unique history.

“Thank you for the opportunity to continue working with the Rivers & Trails Program. RTCA’s expertise and time have really made this project a reality.”

- Alison Clarkson, Chair
Billings Park Commission

Bakersfield Community Trails

Bakersfield created its first conservation commission just over a year ago and already they have achieved a significant conservation success by acquiring a 4-acre parcel in the center of the village that will serve as a new Town Park, as well as a focal point for a Village Center trails system. Creating a system of walking trails on private and public lands that highlight the area's unique ecological regions, historic legacy, and natural beauty is one of the primary goals of the Commission. RTCA has helped the Commission to define and focus their trail goals and begin development of a village walking loop that incorporates the new Town Park land.
