Vermont Youth Conservation Corps Looking for a Few Great Leaders!

The Vermont Youth Conservation Corps is currently seeking highly motivated, well-organized individuals to train and supervise small teams of high school and college age Corps Members in our conservation work and education program.

Crew Leaders transform diverse groups of youth into cohesive teams while completing high priority work projects. Last year, the Vermont Youth Conservation Corps (VYCC) completed 96,182 hours of work on projects such as park management, trail construction, and watershed restoration in both day and residential settings.

One Crew Leader said of her experience, "The VYCC is about more than just getting physical work done, it's about friendship, teamwork, patience, and a whole lot of fun." Corps Member Bayley Lawrence echoed those thoughts, "Working for the VYCC for a summer is not just a job; it's an adventure!"

Individuals interested in learning more VYCC's Crew Leader opportunities or applying online should visit www.vycc.org today . . . positions are filling rapidly.

The Vermont Youth Conservation Corps is a private, non-profit organization that hires teams of young adults (ages 16 to 24) who work and study under excellent adult leadership to complete high-priority conservation projects throughout Vermont.
