About The Vermont Youth Conservation Corps (VYCC)

The VYCC is a 501c3 nonprofit that provides valuable work and learning opportunities to youth and young adults from across the country and throughout Vermont. Our model is simple and effective: young people, working together, outdoors, on conservation and agriculture projects that have a high impact.

Farm & Farm Program Summary

The Vermont Youth Conservation Corps' Food and Farm Program is a dynamic youth development, diversified agriculture and food security initiative. We believe in the power that food has to connect us to the land, our community, and each other. We engage young people in organic farming and culinary education on our historic 400-acre campus in Richmond, Vermont where we grow organically certified vegetables and pasture-raised chickens that are distributed to more than 400 families through our nationally recognized Health Care Share project.

The Health Care Share is a public health initiative that connects Vermont families who experience barriers to accessing locally grown produce or have a diet-related illness with a weekly vegetable share they pick up at partnering medical centers.

We also raise laying hens for eggs, pigs for meat, and additional vegetables, flowers, and herbs that we sell through our vibrant, on-site farm stand. In addition to farming, the program has a strong food component which seeks to deepen the connection between the work we do in the field and the food on our plates.

Conservation Program Summary

VYCC's Conservation Program engages young people in hands-on projects that benefit Vermont's environment and communities. The work of a Conservation Crew includes trail construction and maintenance, carpentry, water quality improvement, and forest management.

Conservation Youth Crews are rooted in a community – either Richmond or Woodstock for 2022 – and work together as a group for the day.

Projects in Richmond include work on our campus to build and maintain trails and work in the surrounding community to improve water quality and recreation access. Projects in Woodstock are at Marsh Billings Rockefeller National Historical Park, taking care of forests and working on trails!
