Who We Are

VYCC's Conservation Program engages young people in hands-on projects that benefit Vermont's environment and communities. Conservation Crew Members are essential to the success of any Conservation Crew and their efforts have a significant impact on habitat, water quality, and outdoor recreation in Vermont.

With a 40-year history in the state, VYCC crews have completed thousands of conservation projects. Corps Members work and learn together in a collaborative crew environment where they gain skills, build community and have a positive impact on the land. Projects range from trail building to infrastructure improvement at State Parks, sustainable forestry to invasive plant management and more. In every case, Corps Members receive training and support from VYCC staff. The experience is immersive and physically demanding. With that challenge also comes tremendous personal reward. For young people passionate about climate resiliency, joining VYCC is a great opportunity to steward the environment while also developing valuable leadership skills.

These projects are made possible through VYCC's partnership with The Corps Network. This is an AmeriCorps position funded through an Opportunity Youth Service Initiative (OYSI) grant.

Who We're Looking For

A successful AmeriCorps Camping Crew Member is someone who rises to new challenges with a positive attitude and will work toward professional development. We look for hard-working individuals who will demonstrate their passion for environmental stewardship and public service through a commitment to VYCC's mission. Strong candidates will bring excitement for outdoor living and learning new skills.

What You Can Expect

AmeriCorps Camping Crew Members work together to complete conservation projects. There are four project areas: trail building, water quality improvement, carpentry, and forest health. VYCC crews learn new skills and work in several different project areas over the course of a season.

Each week starts at VYCC Campus in Richmond, VT. Members arrive early on Monday morning to prepare to leave with their crew by 7:30AM and drive to the project site. Members are required to camp in the field with their crew throughout the week. Crews come back to headquarters every Friday to unpack, clean gear, and have the weekends off.

Members have additional responsibilities at the campsite outside of these hours. Occasionally, Crew Members will have responsibilities on weekends, including training, preparing for and returning from time off, and the end of the season closure.

VYCC crews may be called upon by the state of Vermont to respond in the event of a natural disaster. Disaster relief work is opt-in. If you are interested in serving on a disaster relief crew, inquire about this option during your interview.
